BDLive - The rand weakened on Wednesday, in line with most emerging-market currencies, as the world's two biggest economies reported disappointing inflation data.

The US consumer price index rose 6.2% from a year ago — the fastest annual pace in more than 30 years, and well above the market expectation of 5.9%. On a monthly basis, prices rose 0.9%, also above the 0.6% estimate. Global stocks steadied below this week's record highs and oil prices rose in Jittery markets on Wednesday ahead of inflation data later in the day.

The US consumer price index (CPI) for October is predicted by a Reuters poll of economists to come in at an annualised 4.3% on the closely watched core measure, compared with the US Federal Reserve's average annual 2% inflation target

BDLive - Bengaluru — Gold prices eased on Wednesday as the dollar firmed, with investors looking forward to US inflation data that could have a bearing on the Federal Reserve's next policy move.

Spot gold fell 0.4% to $1,824.90/oz by 5.35am GMT, after recording its highest since Sept. 3 in the previous session. US gold futures eased 0.1% to $1,828.40.

Weighing on bullion by increasing its cost to buyers holding other currencies, the US dollar edged 0.1% up

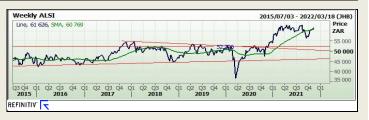

Focus now shifts to the US consumer price index (CPI) report due later in the day where a tight labour market and the dislocation in global supply chains could result in a high reading.

FarmFutures - Corn prices didn't receive much supportive supply and demand data from USDA today, but spillover strength from soybeans and wheat was enough to trigger some technical buying and lift prices around 0.75% higher by the close. December futures added 4 cents to $5.5550, with March futures up 4.25 cents to $5.6525.

Corn basis bids were stead to mixed on Tuesday, firming as much as 8 cents higher at an lowa processor while tumbling as much as 23 cents lower at an Illinois river terminal today.

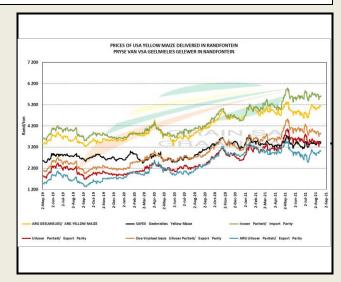

USDA now marks 2021 U.S. corn yields at an average 177.0 bushels per acre, up half a bushel from October estimates and very close to the average trade guess of 176.9 bpa. Production estimates moved modestly higher, to 15.062 billion bushels. That's up from USDA's October projection of 15.019 billion bushels and slightly higher than the average trade guess of 15.050 billion bushels.

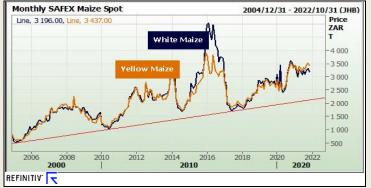

Domestic ending stocks for the 2021/22 marketing year were trimmed by 7 million bushels, to 1.493 billion bushels. Analysts were expecting to see a 20-million-bushel drop. World ending stocks moved 105 million bushels higher, to 11.985 billion bushels.

FarmFutures - Wheat prices posted solid gains Tuesday after USDA reported lower-than-expected global stocks in today's WASDE report, which spurred some technical buying. Spillover strength from other commodities, along with higher energy prices, created additional tailwinds today. December Chicago SRW futures added 14 cents to $7.82, December Kansas City HRW futures rose 15.75 cents to $7.9550, and December MGEX spring wheat futures climbed 19.25 cents to $10.28. U.S. ending stocks tilted 3 million bushels higher compared to last month, reaching $581 million bushels and coming in just above the average trade guess of $81 million bushels. Globally, 2021/22 wheat stocks trended $1 million bushels lower versus October, moving to 10.133 billion bushels. That was a bigger drop than analysts anticipated, offering an average trade guess of 10.159 billion bushels. Winter wheat plantings for the 2021/22 season are nearly complete, with 91% progress through Sunday. That's up from 87% a week ago and identical to the prior five-year average. And 74% of the crop is now emerged, up from 57% last week but three points lower than the prior five-year average area from 20, cuality ratings shifted slightly. France's agricultural ministry predicts the country's soft wheat production this season will reach 1.303 billion bushels, a year-over-year increase of 21.5%, if realized.

FarmFutures - Soybean prices jumped higher after lower-than-expected yield and production estimates from USDA this morning spurred an ample round of technical buying that pushed January contracts back above $12 per bushel. November futures climbed 21.5 cents to $11.9950, while January futures jumped 24 cents to $12.1250. Soybean basis bids were steady to mixed Tuesday, dropping as much as 10 cents and firming as much as 5 cents across various Midwestern locations today.

USDA projects soybean yields at 51.2 bushels per acre, versus the agency's October estimate of 51.5 bpa and an average trade guess of 51.9 bpa (which would have matched 2016's recordpreaking output). That had USDA lowering production estimates by 23 million bushels – in contrast with analyst expectations of seeing that number move 36 million bushels higher. Domestic ending stocks for soybeans moved 20 million bushels higher, to 340 million bushels. Analysts were generally expecting to see a bigger jump, with an average trade guess of 362 million bushels. World ending stocks also saw a modest drop, moving from 3.824 billion bushel n October down to 3.813 billion bushels.

Soybean harvest made it to 87% completion through November 7, up from 79% a week ago and two points below the average trade guess of 89%. It's also four points below 2020's pace of 91% and a point behind the prior five-year average of 88%.
