BDLive - The JSE ended the day little changed in contrast to its European peers, while the rand remained under pressure and extended Tuesday's losses amid a weaker outlook for economic growth and the ongoing war in Ukraine.

"Local headwinds and the strong dollar have eventually shown the rand's vulnerability and weakness," said TreasuryONE currency strategist Andre Cilliers. Stocks edged higher on Wednesday, but gains were capped by questions over how far real bond yields will rise as investors sifted through disappointing Netflix earnings and war continued in Ukraine.

The Stoxx index of 600 European companies gained 0.4% to 458.17 points. The MSCI all country stock index was 0.2% firmer. Investors kept a wary eye on the 10-year treasury inflation-protected securities (TIPS), whose yields briefly broke above negative territory on Tuesday for the first time since March 2020.

BDLive - Bengaluru — Gold prices fell on Wednesday to their lowest in more than a week, as elevated dollar and treasury yields weighed on demand for bullion.

Spot gold was down 0.3% at $1,944.06/oz, at 4.30am GMT, after hitting its lowest since April 11. US gold futures fell 0.7% to $1,944.80. On Tuesday, prices had fallen up to 1.8% as a stronger dollar and rising treasury yields overshadowed safe-haven inflows into the metal. "With the US dollar still firm today, and with China declining to lower its one- and five-year loan prime rates, it looks like the long squeeze [in gold] is continuing in Asia," said Ganda senior analyst Jeffrey Halley.

The dollar held near recent highs, making greenback-priced gold less attractive for other currency holders. China kept its benchmark lending rates for corporate and household loans steady at its April fixing, defying expectations, as Beijing has become more cautious in introducing easing measures to aid a slowing economy.

FarmProgress - Corn prices firmed 1.25% on a round of technical buying largely spurred by expected planting delays in the U.S., with general export optimism lending additional support. May futures rose 11 cents to $8.15, with July futures up 9.5 cents to $8.0925.

Corn basis bids were mostly steady to weak after trending 3 to 7 cents lower at three Midwestern locations on Wednesday. An Ohio elevator bucked the overall trend, firming 7 cents higher today.

Ethanol production for the week ending April 15 faded another 5% lower to land at the lowest level since September 2021, with a daily average of just 947,000 barrels., per the latest data from the U.S. Energy Information Administration. Stocks slid 2% lower to the lowest levels in more than three months.

Ahead of Thursday morning's export report from USDA, analysts expect the agency to show another big round of corn sales, with trade guesses ranging between 53.1 million and 90.5 million bushels for the week ending April 14.

In Brazil, more corn and soybean plantings has put downward pressure on the country's sugarcane acres, which were down another 3.5% in 2021/22 to 20.55 million acres. The crop has been in gradual decline after peaking in 2016/17. "It is hard to match the profitability of planting soybeans and corn in the same area," according to Conab's director for agricultural policy, Sergio De Zen. That makes it difficult for the sugar industry to even maintain current sugarcane area, he notes.

FarmProgress - Wheat prices were mixed after an uneven round of technical maneuvering today. Winter wheat contracts spilled moderately lower on a second consecutive session of profit-taking, while spring wheat contracts fought for modest gains on some light technical buying. May Chicago SRW futures fell 6 cents to $10.93, May Kansas City HRW contracts dropped 5 cents to $11.6650, and May MGEX spring wheat futures added 3.75 cents to $11.73. Prior to Thursday morning's weekly export report from USDA, analysts think the agency will show wheat sales ranging between 5.5 million and 27.6 million bushels for the week ending April 14. Argentine farmers may plant around 16.062 million acres of wheat during the 2022/23 season, per the Buenos Aires Cereal Exchange. That's a slight decline from a year ago, with an uptick in barley acres expected to fill the gap. That makes it somewhat unlikely for Argentina to repeat its 2021/22 production of 801 million bushels. Jordan passed on its international tender to purchase 4.4 million bushels of wheat, which closed earlier today. The country has struggled to close deals on similar tenders in recent months, especially as prices have heated up since late February. Jordan is expected to issue a similar tender that will close next Wednesday.

Preliminary volume estimates were for 76,557 CBOT contracts, sliding slightly below Tuesday's final count of 77,869.

FarmProgress - Soybean prices made significant inroads on a round of technical buying triggered by dwindling domestic supplies, healthy export optimism and a slower-than-normal start to the 2022 season. May futures climbed 30 cents to $17.4650, while July futures rose 24.5 cents to $17.1625.

Soybean basis bids were mostly steady to firm on Wednesday after jumping 11 to 15 cents higher at three Midwestern locations today. An Ohio river terminal bucked the overall trend after dropping 5 cents lower.

Ahead of tomorrow morning's export report from USDA, analysts think the agency will show soybean sales ranging between 18.4 million and 71.7 million bushels for the week ending April 14. Analysts also expect to see soybean sales ranging between 75,000 and 350,000 metric tons, plus up to 25,000 MT of soyoil sales.

In Brazil, Abiove made no changes to its prior estimate for the country's 2021/22 production potential, which remains at 4.604 billion bushels. Ending stocks are estimated at 88.9 million bushels, rising 27% above March totals. And Abiove estimates that soybean exports will climb to a record 18.3 million metric tons this season, with revenue from the entire soybean complex also expected to reset the record books, with $55.9 billion.
